Teacher Spotlight

Katie Miller is a 6/7 Grade Science Teacher. Her favorite color is teal. She is married with 2 children. Her favorite hobby is anything outdoors & sports. Something silly about her is she likes to sing and dance in class! Sounds like a fun teacher! If she could be an animal, she would be a Liger. She says that we can “Be the Magic” at school and in our lives by being the nice kid! Her weirdest talent is that she can do a monkey call. Can’t wait to hear that! A fictional character she would like to meet in real life is Micheal Scott, Jim & Pam Halpert from The Office. If you see Mrs. Miller, be sure to say hi to her!

Koriane Maughan and Kate Elliott received the Responsibility in Education award in the Faculty Meeting this past week. Koriane received it from Scott Johnson and Kate received it from Alison Mower. This award is a traveling award that is given monthly at faculty meetings to a faculty member by faculty members. The award, which is a marble statue of Gary Price's "Statue of Responsibility" was chosen to symbolize all that we should be as educators in lifting others and helping them reach their full potential. Mrs. Maughan and Mrs. Elliott now proudly get to display the statue in their classrooms for a month until the next faculty meeting, where they will present it to other deserving faculty members. Way to go, teachers!!
